DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
  - I. Claims 1-10, drawn to a method for identifying dyad symmetry elements, classified in class 702, subclass 20.
  - II. Claims 11-12, drawn to computer code for determining dyad symmetry, classified in class 702, subclass 19.
  - III. Claim 13, drawn to determining electrical conductivity of DNA, classified in class 435, subclass 6.
  - IV. Claims 14-15, drawn to computer code for determining electrical conductivity, classified in class 700, subclass 1.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

2. Inventions in Group I and in Group II are related as process and apparatus for its practice. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case, the process can be practiced by hand. Further, the apparatus can be used to analyze any nucleic acid such as determining the presence or absence of repeating elements, a distinct and useful nucleic acid method.
3. Inventions in Groups I and II are related to Groups III and IV as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because the combination incorporates the requirement for electrical conductivity determination. The subcombination of Groups I and II has separate utility for identification of Dyads which is evidenced by the fact that the Groups are separately claimed, which is evidence that the claims are believed to have utility.

4. Inventions in Group III and in Group IV are related as process and apparatus for its practice. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case, the process can be practiced by hand. Further, the apparatus can be used to analyze any nucleic acid such as determining the presence or absence of electrical conductivity in nucleic acids, a distinct and useful nucleic acid method.

5. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

6. A telephone call was made to Mark Friedman on June 3, 2002 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

Art Unit: 1637

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

7. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
